

PSEUDO-REVOLUTIONARIES- SPEAR HEADED BY CDRIE CANNOT DETER OUR NATIONAL CONFERENCE
BY EAIM (AMARE G. GEBRE)

Eritreans are devoid of their human, civic, economic, political and social rights by the ruthless dictatorial regime in our country we love the most. The struggle today is to change the spirit of Eritrean politics towards deeper democratic consciousness by clearing away the obstacle, which is dictatorship.

The dictatorial regime these days is with no political power base; isolated from the people; lost credibility at home and abroad and no body believes in what is said or written in its mass media. To avert his sinking power of grip we see old tactics of control. One of the methods to convince people that common sense is not the best sense at all is to set up pseudo-opposition gangs to imitate democracy and pluralism wherever possible. The logic is quite simple. The regime's theorists have been wise to decide that it will be insufficient to rid real and determined political opposition who swim in the ocean of its people- another controllable opposition has to be created. That is where the pseudo-opposition group fits in. These pseudo-revolutionaries formulations appear to be at odds with the regime, but their actions conform to and ultimately condone the very regime they say oppose. In essence by speaking out against the regime they expect to win the hearts and minds of the oppressed Eritreans.

Some of the tactics these pseudo opposition movements apply include:

- Hold conferences to propagate their disguised views.
- Make relationship with some political movements and organizations.
- Write articles and publish magazines, some fictitious, others who knows!
- Travel wherever Eritreans organize a forum.

This pseudo- revolutionary clique are trying to create misunderstanding, confusion, suspicion among opposition organizations, movements and some democratic groups and revolutionary elements by:

- Misquoting certain issues said by one organization on their target list.
- Creating mountains out of mall hills on certain political issues.
- Saying one thing today and denying or evading the next day.
- Claim they stand for oppressed Eritreans when actually are propagating against their human and political rights.

The newly crafted civil union under the name of CDRIE emerged with the slogans: No alternative to the peaceful means of struggle, reconciliation is possible and engage the youth. We want to make clear to our readers that every body likes and would like to resolve obstacles, crisis through possible means and all possible means to deal with the Eritrean political situation has been pursued to no avail.. What we are hearing from these apologists is capitulation to dictatorship.

Dear CDRIE leaders, we don't disagree with the premise that reconciliation is possible. But we would like to ask with whom and under what circumstance? Are you saying dictatorship understands dialogue? We beg to differ that democracy never reconciles with dictatorship.

Leaders of CDRIE say that let us engage the Eritrean youth. Eritrean youth are perishing in the seas, deserts, refugee camps, in prisons etc. Are you telling us the Eritrean youth in slave labor With PFDJ are being engaged? Come to your senses and engage dictatorship with arms.

Paulos Tesfagiorgis {Wadi Batai} is one of these CDRIE leaders; in fact he is the mover and shaker of this so called civic union. We knew Paulos in the Addis Ababa university campus, we knew him during the EPLF armed struggle cultivating dictatorship, we knew him as PFDJ selected constitution drafting committee member, we knew him as a member of what they call themselves G13.. Paulos Wadi Batai you cannot camouflage yourself as an opposition and cry all the grapes are sour on the up coming Eritrean national conference.

We struggle we succeed
Glory to our martyrs
